INTERNECINE TROUBLES THAT PRE-CEDED YESTERDAY'S CONVENTION.

The Claims of Gov. Andrews for Renomina-Candidate also Put Aside and Higelaw Nomtasted for Governor-A Story About Jewelt

-The Prospects of a Democratic Victory.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 11 .- The nomination of Mayor Bigelow by the Republican State Convention to-day ends, for the present at least, a very serious quandary of the party in Connecticut. The Republican leaders were much puzzled as to the selection of the proper man. for next November Connecticut not only elects Presidential electors, but, moreover, a full State ticket, half the Senate, and the whole of the lower branch of the General Assembly, which body is to choose a United States Senator.

The first part of the Republican difficulty was how to get rid of Gov. Andrews. By party usage he was entitled to a renomination. He was, indeed, more especially entitled to it from the fact that, when nearly every prominent man in the party had refused to accept the nomination in 1878, he had the pluck to accept it and led the party to victory, falling of an election by the popular vote, it is true, but getting a handsome majority over Gov. Hubbard. Mr. Andrews has shown himself an excellent Governor, fearless. independent, popular with the masses of the party, especially in the rural districts whence come the Republican majorities when there are any, but the politicians do not like him. He has wexed their righteous souls by refusing to fol-low their dictation as regards the few appointments to office that a Connecticut Governor can dispose of, and they insist that he must be diswho fought for his country as a member of Gov. Jewell's staff, and who during that arduous campaign carned the right to the position and salary of railroad or bank commissioner, is so indignant over Gov. Andrews's refusal to recognize his services and sacrifices that evenings ago, on joining a Garfield club, he formally announced that he reserved his right to vote and work against Andrews, should he be renominated. A more prominent Republican in Hartford, who wants to be, and is not. Insurance Commissioner, piedged himself to spend his money as freely to defeat Andrews. Insurance Commissioner, piedged himself to spend his money as freely to defeat Andrews. But while the political managers swore that Andrews must not be renominated, that he would surely be defeated, and in his defeat turn over a very doubtful State to swell the Hancock majority, the masses of the party think that one good turn deserves another, and that as Gov. Andrews has been an excellent executive, the best the State has had for several years, he should not be snuibed. The plain country farmers like his democratic ways, and think all the more of him that he lacks the handsome Mr. Jewell's style and graces. Gov. Andrews has a large brain, but doesn't exhibit much shirt bosom, and as for lavender kids, it is doubtfull fhe ever wore a pair. Notwithstanding the hostility to Andrews, there was no great rush among the Republican politicians for the honor of hending the ticket and leading the party in November. The truth is that the post of leadership is to be a costly one. Mr. Jewell openly announced that the candidate must have plenty of money and be willing to spend it, and that his candidate was Oliver Hovt of Stamford, a rich and plous Methodist brother, who, it is said, offered $30,000 and as much more as may be needed to run the campaign. Brother Jewell is a pious man himself, and likes piety as well as pelf in a candidate. Brother Jewell's piety once came near getting him into trouble and as the little story paints the man, you may as well have it.

man himself, and likes piety as well as pelf in a candidate. Brother Jewell's piety once came near getting him into trouble, and as the little story paints the man, you may as well have it. Until within the last few years Connecticut used to elect her Governor annually, and in the month of April. Then the Governor's first opportunity to display his piety occurred in November, when it became his duty to issue a Thanksgiving proclamation. The handsome Governor spread himself on that occusion, and after some unctuous sentences, wound up with an allusion to "our Larii and Saviour, Jesus Christ." Before the time came for issuing the Fast Day proclamation, a friend ventured to remark to Mr. Jewell that as among the citizens of Connecticut there were several Jews, Unitarians. Partialists, and possibly some infidels, and that as the Constitution of the State did not recognize any State religion, it might be better for the Governor of Connecticut to abstain from such decided antement of dislinctively Christian doctrines in an official document. But the friend who ventured the remonstrance felt very much ashamed of himself when the pious and handsome Mr. Jewell rose in all his majesty, and solemniy and carnestly declared that such public and official endorsement of Christianity was with him a matter of conscience is tat sooner than refrain from it he would lay down his high office, and that no temptation of ambition should ever induce him to follow Peter and turn his back upon the Lord and Saviour who had stood by him all his life. Of course there was nothing more to be said; conscience is supreme. Yet, strangely enough, when next the pious Mr. Jewell rose in all increasing man in charge of the campaign.

Piety and cash, then, are the qualifications Mr. Jewell regards as essential in the Republican candidate for Governor this year. Oliver Hoyt and cash, then, are the qualifications Mr. Jewell rose, as essential in the Republican candidate for Governor this year.

New Haven always has candidates for everything that is going, and generally so many of them that it doesn't get anything. Postmaster Sperry's candidate in to-day's Convention was Mayor Bigelow, whose messages are, according to the Postmaster, written by the Hon. N. D. Sperry; but the Mayor rejects the compliment and says he writes them himself. There is an impression throughout the State that the Postmaster owns the Mayor, and with the rural folks this rather hurts than helps Mr. Bigelow's political prospects. For while in New Haven everybody, irrespective of party, and even including the college "culture" folks, adore Mr. Sperry, and bets are freely offered by the Post Office clerks that Hanocek has piedged himself to retain him in the Post Office, the county delegates were a little afraid of him and of his candidates.

The Convention organized to-day by the selection of E. S. Day of Colchester for temporary Chairman. The Committee on Permanent Organization reported the name of the famous Brandegee of New London for Pressident. Brundegee was the man who made himself so conspicuous in the Chicago Convention by upsetting the plans of the Biaine men by moving an adjournment on the first day, just after the Blaine leaders had won a substantial victory and wanted to pross it. To-day Brandegee made a long speech on taking the chair, lauding Garfield to the skies.

and wanted to pross R. To-day Brandegees made a long speech on taking the chair, lauding Garfield to the skies.

At 12's the Convention proceeded to an informal ballot for Governor. On the first informal ballot for Governor 407 votes were cast of which H. B. Bigelow of New Haven and 155. Gov. Charles B. Andrews, 113; William H. Bulkeley of Hartford, 113; Jeremiah Halsey of Norwich, 11; Oliver Hoyt of Stamford, 8, and 7 scoatering.

Notwich, II; Oliver Hoyt of Stamford, S, and 7 soattering.

A formal ballot was ordered after an opportunity for the presentation of the candidates, George H. Watrous of New Haven spoke for Mr. Bigelow, saying, in proof of his p pularity, that, in a city generally Democratic, he had been elected Mayor by a majority of 2,300.

Mr. O. P. Bradstreet of Thomaston spoke for Gov. Andrews, making a strong plea for his renomination, defending his administration as without a flaw, and speaking in high terms of his ability and manhood.

Mr. William C. Case of Simsbury presented the name of William H. Buikeley of Hartford, earnestly and strongly claiming that his nomination would be in itself organized success.

earnestly and strongly claiming that his nomination would be in itself organized success.

Ex-Gov. Minor of Stamford favored the selection of Jeremian Halsey, characterizing him as a distinguished lawyer, and a true-hearted, honest man, and a staiwart Republican who would give more strength to the ticket, State and national, than any other man.

The formal bailot for Governor resulted as follows; Bigglow, 207; Bulkeley, 111; Andrews, 60; Halsey, 40; scattering, 6. Mr. Bigglow acked only five votes of a majority, and Mr. L. G. Stanton of Hartford moved the nomination by actionation, and hoped that Mr. Bulkeley would consent to take the second place. Hartford and New Haven striking hands for once. This suggestion was received with great applance. Mr. Bigglow was then nominated for Governor by accimantion, as was Gen. William H. Bulkeley for Lieutenant-Governor. Hobart B. Bigglow is a manufacturer in New Haven, and is the present Mayor of that city. Mr. Bulkeley is a merchant in Hartford, and is also interested in manufacturers.

After the asumi resolutions ratifying the national nominations, and giving to the Republican party credit for svery good thing that has happened to the country in twenty years, the following on a subject that hes excited great interest in Connecticut, was placed:

Resired, That the State Roart of Health are requested to make such immediate mostification of their raise and remaining, under the great of distribution the colors in the state of March, 1880, comperming coins bindness in minead and somewhates in this state at the state of their several places of fact and the state of their several places of fact and the state of their several places of fact and the state of their several places of fact and their several places of their several places of fact and their several places of the several places of their several places of their several places o

The resolutions as reported by the committee were adopted, with this additional one: Resided, That the gratitude of the people of the State is due to Governor Andrews and his able assembles for their wise, prodent, and honest administration of the public additions.

The campaign in this little State will be a hotly contested one, with pienty of money on both sides; but if the Democrats close their ranks, drop personal issues, and go into the fight determined to win, the result cannot be doubtful.
On a full vote Connecticut is a Democratic State, and every year growing more so. Four years ago no Republican expected to carry the electoral vote of the State for Hayes, and to-day it is conceded that it only depends upon the Democrats themselves how large shall be Hancock's majority.

Mr. Mitchell Upon Money, Panics, Sliver, and the Tax on Deposits.

The American Bankers' Association met in Saratoga, yesterday, Mr. J. D. Vermilye of New York introducing the President, Mr. Alex. Mitchell of Milwaukee, who congratulated the Convention on the change within the past two years in the financial condition of the country. At that time, Mr. Mitchell said, the return to specie payment was a problem apparently difficuit of solution. Now the fact of resumption awakened only surprise at the case with which it was accomplished through the cordial co-operation of the banks and bankers of the United States. Resumption was preceded Father Lynch, assistant to Vicar-General and Chancellor Preston—was set on fire on the afternoon of the 24th of May last. Before the fire was extinguished confusion and alarm prevailed amost the immales, some of whom were confined to their rooms by sickness. In the course of an investigation as to the caussiof the fire, Madame Ralph, the sister in charge of the sewing machine room, said that Addie Titus, an inmate of the house, asked permission to quit the room for a moment just before the fire broke out. When confronted by the Fire Marshai the girl confessed that she set fire to the bed. She did so, she said, because she hoped to make her escape in the confusion incident to the fire. She had communicated her plan, she added, to Sarah Oakley and Annie Lamb inmates of the institution. The three girls were arrested and indicted for arson in the first degree. On June 29 they were arraigned in the General Sessions. Addie Titus pleaded guilty, but Sarah Oakley and Annie Lamb demanded trial. Addie Titus was called as a witness for the people, and she testified so as to incriminate berself and virtually exculpite the others. The jury disagreed, and the prisoners and Addie Titus were remanded.

The girls were called to the bar yesterday. At their own request, Sarah Oakley and Annie Lamb deversemmitted to the House of the fivod Sheoherd, Addie Titus was sent unced by Judge Gilderiseere to the penisantary for four years. She covered her face with her hands and wept as the was look back to the brisoners' box. Lynch, assistant to Vicar-General and Chan-

Railrond Officials and Men Opposing the Tests Established by the State Board of Health for the Prevention of Railroad Accidents. NEW HAVEN, Aug. 7 .- A petition is being circulated throughout the State, asking the State Board of Health to modify the method of making examinations of railroad em-ployees for color blindness and defective into the courts in some manner yet to be de-Col. Dexter R. Wright of this city has been re-tained by the railroad men as counsel in case such an emergency should arise, and the Hon. Lynds Harrison, the Hon. Henry Hort, and other prominent lawyers have volunteered their services if needed. The act ordering that all railroad employees be examined was passed by the last Logislature. It provides that on or before Oct. 1, 1880, all the railroad companies shall cause every person in the held a largely attended meeting in this city, at which it was voted to draw up the petition here-tofore noted, asking that the methods of examining be modified by the State Board of Health. It was also understood at the meeting that the engineers would refuse to appear before the examinere unless as a last resort. Some of the engineers, it is claimed, are not opposed to the color-bind test. They would prefer, however, that instead of being tested in a room with a number of colors likely to be wilder them, they be placed on their engineers and examined with the red, white, and green flags and lanterns that they have been accustomed to for years. The men also say that it is far from fair to test them in a room with letters three-eight inches long on their time boards. They are willing to zo out on their locomotives and be tried to see how far ahead of their trains they can see by day or night. Again, some of the men think that even with one eye not quite so good as another they can see just as well and as far as a person with two zood eyes, and they will submit to any practical test to decide the matter. But they insist that it is a great hardship for them to risk being thrown out of work after years of service without ever having an accutent happen to their trains, as in the case of Engineer Bullard, the while they can do all that is required by the public safety while on the road, just because they cannot tell a green flag or light from a red one is not fit to run a train, and they accept Prof. Carmalt's statement that four men out of every hundred are thus color bind; but they may be red the public safety while on the road, just because they cannot tell a green flag or light from a red one is not fit to run a train, and they are cept Prof. Carmalt's statement that four men out of every hundred are thus color blind; but they repeat that the man at road of the road, it is not they repeat that the matter should be decided in a practical way and no other.

SARATOGA, Aug. 11.—Warm but clear weather favored the third extra day of the second meeting. The attendance seems to grow on the extra days, which can probably be accounted for by the fact of the large fields entered for the purses given our threse days.
